INCIDENTS OF THE LATE NEW CREEK DISASTER .- W. B. Pumphrey, of this city was at New Creek when the rebels attacked that place on Monday last. He was captured with a number of soldiers and com pelled to march about twelve miles, greatly to the damage of his health which has not been good for some time. When the rebels were convinced that Mr. P. could march no longer they put him in an ambulance with a lot of dead men, but finally let him go, one of the Johnnies expressing the opinion that he would'nt live till morning anyhow. Mr. P., however, has arrived in this city and is worth a half dozen of his ambulance companions yet.

A prominent merchant of this city was also in New Creek at the time of the attack. Upon the approach of the rebels he took to the river wading the stream up to his neck while the rebel bullets fell like hall about his head. The rebs migtook our mercantile friend for a paymaster, and manifested a most energetic disposition to kill or capture him. He had a couple of thousand dollars upon his person and escaping well out of sight, he decided to save both his money and his bacon by hiding under a rock until our Southern brethren should see proper to depart. He turned up all right the next day and is expected home shortly to relate his hair breadth 'scape and his adventures by flood and field.

Sergeant Pumphrey, of this city, a member of Holmes' battery was captured, but made his escape.

Abraham Hinkle was in Hughes' stor when the rebels commenced storming the He concealed himself under a platform but was driven out by the heat of the fire from a burning building. He was captured and taken to a point five miles beyond Greenland Gap, where he made his escape and has returned to New Creek .-Hinkle is from Pendleton county, and was quite a famous scout of Gen. Milroy's while operating in West Virginia.

ENBOLLMENT LISTS .- It is supposed that there is no state in the Union whose enrollment lists stands as much in need of correction as those of West Virginia. All persons enrolled have manifestly a deep interest in having complete lists of all per-sons liable to draft. The Government does not propose to incur the heavy expense of keeping a large number of enrolling officers constantly employed in this work, but will rely upon the loyal citizens of the sub-districts to see that the lists are corrected by having those who are not liable stricken off, and by adding those who have been omitted, as well as those who have arrived at the age of twenty.

The several sub-districts will find it for their interest to keep up these corrections and additions, in order that when a draft is made the burden may fall equally upon

The citizens of each sub-district are inwited to appoint a committee of reliable men, whose business it shall be to examine from time to time the lists, and make such reports to the Board of Enrollment as will tend to keep their lists as accurate as possible. This is the time for sub-districts, claiming to have an excessive enrollment, to set to work and have it corrected. The Commissioners of the Board is specially charged with the supervision of the enrollment, and is ready at all times to confer with and aid local authorities in this work.

It is manifestly the interest of every en rolled man that those who are not liable should be stricken from the rolls; for, by this means, the quota is reduced, and it is equally for his interest that all who are liable should be enrolled, as his chances of being drafted are thereby proportionally diminished. It is also for the interest of those who have furnished substitutes liable to the draft, that the lists should embrace all who are liable, as their exemptions hold good only until the pres ent eproliment is exhausted.

JUSTICE TO WHOM JUSTICE IS DUE. -Two or three months ago a man by the name of D. T. Thomas came to this city and collected small sums of money from different persons as he said, to assist in rebuilding the house of a Mr. Reed of ood county, whose property had been destroyed by fire. We had reason to be lieve from Mr. Thomas' conversation and conduct that he intended to appropriate VALUABLE SHORT CREEK LAND the money to his own use and therefore warned the community that good people might not be deceived by him. Since that time we have received sevral letters from the neighborhood in which Thomas has lately resided, the writers of which differ somewhat in opinion as to his character and as to his purpose in collecting the money.—Yesterday, however, we received a letter from a gentleman of the highest character with whom we are well acquainted, setting forth that in the opinion of the writer, the money was collected in good faith and was badly needed by Mr. Reed, the person for badly needed by Mr. Reed, the person for whom it was collected. The letter also states that Mr. Thomas is a man of "much assurance and conceit and frequently does things that are foolish, but otherwise We deem this statement due to Thomas, but we must insist that he has no one to blame but himself for the notoriety which he has acquired in the matter.

ASTRONOMICAL.-Wednesday and Phursday were quite epochs in the solar system, geocentrically considered. Three mportant phenomena were on viewto the mind's eye, of course-for only one of them is visible, and that only through a properly prepared instrument. They were s follows:

Conjunction of Sun and Jupiter, Wednesday, 4h 53m a.m.

Opposition of Sun and Mars, Wednes iay, 3h 23m p. m.

Opposition of Mars and Jupiter, Thursday, 2h 27m p. m.

The first was a very close conjunction the center of Jupiter being only 34m 51s northward of the solar center, and the combined semidiameters being 16m 31s, reduces the distances between the discs to ISm 20s, but little more than half the apparent diameter of the Sun. The planet Mars passed both of these in opposition with a slight interval. Mars might have been seen in the first decan of the sign Gemini, almost close to Aldebaran, and within a little distance of the Pleiades, Caput Medusae and Orion. He is of beautiful fiery red, and being opposite the Sun is on the meridian at midnight, rising at sunset. The last two oppositions o Mars to the Sun occurred in July, 1860, and on October 5, 1863. The next will occur on January 10, 1867.

Mone Ronnsaiss.—The city appears to be full of enterprising young persons of fraudulent dispositions. We hear every day of some new robbery. Houses are entered with great boldness, draw ars and clothing ransacked, and valnables carried away. On Thursday nigh some unknown this entered the room of a couple of boarders at the Grant House, and ransacked the pockets of the sleeping occupants of the apartment, carrying away about twelve dollars in money. Very few persons with any considerable sums of money upon their persons would think of retiring, any more, without leaving a loaded revolver near at hand, only that they are afraid the thieves would steal weapons of defence.

vancing across the State of Georgia, in full accordance with the programme which he prepared for himself before leaving Atlanta, if a judgment was formed of his movements by the records of these frightened rebel newspaper men, we might consider his course very erratic. His army is omnipresent and then again it is no where. It is here, there and every-where, stretch nipresent and then again it is no where. It is here, there and every-where, stretching its terrible lines across the State, and anon it has vanished entirely.

Richmond papers of last Tuesday say the rebels still occupy Macon, and that on Saturday last Sherman had not approached Augusta.

It is claimed for the fiftieth time that Kilpatrick's cavairy were repulsed at the Ocones river on the 21st ult.

Yesterday evening the two hostile armies were engaged in skirmish-ing, and the rattle of artillery could plain-ly be heard in the streets of Nashville. A battle, terrible in fury, is imminent. We believe Gen. Thomas has not any fears about the result. He is not as weak as he would make the rebels believe he is. the can offer battle to better advantage to himself in front of Nashville than at any other point. His left wing rests on Mur-freesboro, and when strengthened by the forces from Chattanooga, he will be strong enough to close upon Hood's rear and out

Already the lines are closing, and each hour the threads of the net are more completely woven. We will not tremble for the result, but will feel strong and hopeful for the cause, and confidently look for victory to cereic upon our hanners. Our troopy to perch upon our banners. Our troops are prave, and Gen. Thomas is an able commander. We predict that the rebel urms will meet with a terrible disaster. Fonda, of the 11th Illinois, was in command of the column and proceeded to Port Hudson, theate to Jackson on the 16th. Ten miles from Jackson he surprised a camp, dispersed and captured 55 prisoners, 200 stand of ams and some horses, 25 army wagons and a large amount of military stores. He then moved forward and joined the main column under Gen. Lee, who thus reincolumn under Gen. Lee, who thus rein-forced, marched upon Liberty, while an other column had been started from Bato other column had been started from Bato. Rouge for Liberty under Col. Marsh, 2-3 Lilinois cavalry. This column reached Liberty and surprised the rebel General Hodge in command there. He barely escaped capture by jumping from a backwindow, but all the members of his staff were taken, including Lieutenant Davis, a nephew of Jeffy's. The cavalry remained here until the arrival of Gen. Lee whose the expeditions were despatched still further into the enemy's line and one going to Brook Haven under Col. Fonds, and the other to Summit under Col. Bussiord, of the N. Y. cavalry.

At Brook Haven a train of cars, loaded with all kinds of military stores, was captured and destroyed, and also buildings containing Quartermaster stores. Fitty prisoners were taken, a section of artillery, and 40 wagons loaded with stores.—Col Bosseford found a large quantity of stores at Summit as the place was surprised. He secured the whole and destroyed it. He then returned to Liberty with 25 prisoners and some valuable trophies of this successful raid. While these expeditions were absent, Gen. Lee was attacked at Liberty by Col. Scott, and a most vigorous fight was kept up for two hours; and although Lee's forces was outnumbered by Scott, the rebels were finally obliged to retire. The result of the fight was the capture of 28 prisoners, one 12 pounder howitzer, and 30 left dead on the field. The expedition then returned to Baton Rouge. Our loss was not over 20.

A fire occurred at Baton Louge on the 22d ult., in a building formerly used as a cotton manufactory but recently as a government stable. Over $70,000 worth of cotton manufactory but recently as a government stable. Over $70,000 worth of property was destroyed, consisting mules, horses and harness.
